

Somatic Experiencing®

The Somatic Experiencing Trauma Institute is proud to offer trainings in

San Diego, California

February 11-14, 2011

for Helping & Healing Professionals....

Somatic Experiencing® (SE), developed by Peter Levine, PhD, is a comprehensive clinical approach to trauma healing, taught to professionals around the world. Its naturalistic orientation works with nervous system conditioning in the wake of traumatic stress. Trauma responses and trauma healing are rooted in the ability or failure of the biology to make fluid phase transitions out of and between emergency states of fight, flight and freeze. Recognizing the inherent tendency toward self-reorganization, people can heal from the most arduous traumas once they learn this natural language of the body. The result is a return to aliveness, instinct, and connection to life in the here-and-now.

The SE training, offered in over 15 countries around the world, provides participants with the knowledge and skills required to effectively treat post traumatic stress in a wide variety of clinical and educational settings. In addition, it has been found that the SE approach is effective in the treatment of developmental and shock trauma and recent research has confirmed that the approach is effective in the treatment of post-disaster trauma symptoms.
